GOULD'S ACADEMY.

The fall term of Gould's Academy opened Tuesday, Sept. 3d, with a full attendance. The entering class numbered thirty one, being the largest, with one exception, during the ten years of Miss Hanson's administration. The outlook for the coming year is very promising. The Normal department, though just organized, will be a valuable addition to the school curriculum. Miss Linda A. Chase, who has charge of this department, brings to her work training and experience which should make this course one of the strongest and most popular in the school. The addition to the faculty, also of Miss Elsie Hall, as teacher of instrumental music, will help to give tone and balance to an already strong and efficient board of instruction.

Following is the full board of instruction for the coming year:

Frank H. Hanson, A. M. Principal,
Latin, Geometry, Senior Reviews,
Marian T. Pratt, A. B. Preceptor, Frederick, History and Bookkeeping, Maudie L. Thurston, A. B., English, German and Science.
Linda A. Chase,
Normal Studies and Algebra.
Elsie M. Hall, Instrumental Music.

A CONSERVATORY CLASS.

In adding Miss Elsie Hall to the staff of teachers at Gould's Academy, we feel that she has something more than most teachers to offer.

Miss Hall has had the direct influence upon her musical life of two famous teachers in Europe. The foundation of her undeniably fine playing today was carefully laid by Mrs. Dr. von Hangan, who, as "Miss Lillian," left an indelible mark upon her Bethel pupils, and who, herself, was a favored pupil of Oscar Reiff of Berlin, Germany, who was much interested in her because she went to him to learn how to teach. She gave Miss Hall the foreign methods as her first directing instruction, and remarked, even then, that Miss Elsie had marked musical ability.

This last year Miss Hall has had the good fortune to be a pupil of one of Leeschitzky's successful pupils and there is no doubt but Miss Hall's command of the piano is unusual for one so young and that the modern methods of the great masters are to be eagerly seized by those who wish to make their musical studies produce the best results.

Miss Hall wishes to introduce an innovation in the teaching of music in the Academy by following the methods of the New England Conservatory and having what is called "class work."

In this way four pupils share the honor, each receiving fifteen minutes instruction and listening to the instruction given others during the rest of the hour. It is claimed that much is accomplished in this way, by teaching the pupil from the first to be free from self-consciousness, and that they gain much from the stimulus of getting along with others. This reduces the expense to the smallest possible amount as the hour is divided between four and the expense is very small.

For private pupils the lessons will be at the same rate as other teachers. Miss Hall wishes to arrange classes work for the Academy that the school may have a more definite musical life. This will be without any pecuniary advantage upon the pupils excepting such as music as would be required.

By earnest request Miss Hall will give a short recital at the Academy on Friday afternoon at two o'clock. The trustees and their wives and all interested friends are cordially invited to attend.

SUSTAINED PAINFUL INJURIES.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bryant Thrown from Their Carriage.

As Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bryant were driving from their store Monday evening, they met with quite a serious accident. It was very dark and when they came to the hill just beyond Herman Mason's, the horse left the road and went over the embankment, upsetting the carriage and throwing Mr. and Mrs. Bryant out.

Mr. Bryant struck on his head and was very badly shaken up, but not seriously injured. Mrs. Bryant's injuries were more serious. The bones in her shoulder were spread apart and the muscles torn, and several ribs and one hip were quite badly hurt. Their many friends extend sympathy, and hope for a speedy recovery.

ODEON HALL TO BE RENOVATED.

All will be pleased to know that Odeon Hall is to undergo a thorough renovation in the near future. It has been in need of repair for sometime and now the work is to be done thoroughly. The gallery is to be torn out and made into a small hall, 37 by 50 feet and a new floor put in, also four sliding doors which will entirely separate it from the main hall. The stairs are to be torn out, and a new set of stairs will lead up from the lower hall.

A steel ceiling is to be put in by a Lewiston contractor, which will be a decided improvement. Connections are to be made with the sewer and another lavatory put in.

When the work is completed, Bethel will have one of the finest halls in the county, for a town of its size.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

In the pastor's absence, J. H. Derivation D. D., of Williamstown, Mass., will preach next Sunday at the usual hour.

The Christian Endeavor Society will hold its meetings Sunday evenings at the usual hour, seven o'clock. Topic of the meeting for September 15th, "God's Omnipotence." Scripture, Isa. 40: 12-31.

All young people, and all who are interested in Christian Endeavor, are invited to these meetings.

SPRINT WAS NOT ENJOYED.

Washingtonian "Got More Exercise Than He Cared For."

A funny story is going the rounds concerning a recent adventure of a Washingtonian who says the scales at something over 250 pounds.

The party was in a hurry to leave at a certain hour, and finding that he only had fifteen minutes in which to reach the depot, he hastily summoned an ancient night-line coupe.

The vehicle was so creaky and uncertain as the fabled Parson's One-

Horse Bay, and just before the fat man entered the rig he notified the driver to hasten to the station at top speed.

With this he scrambled into the coupe and slammed the door. Hardly had he done so when his great avoidance caused the floor of the vehicle to go down and out like a flash. The fat man fell down to the street and remained there for some time, but after a few moments he managed to scramble up and crawl into the coupe. The driver, who was waiting for the fat man, saw him get in and started the engine. The fat man was so embarrassed that he did not say a word to the driver, but he

say a word to the driver, but he

BUILD RIGHT WHEN BUILDING.

The Well-Constructed Poultry House
Is the Only One That Pays.

It costs little more to build a poultry house right than it does to build it in such a slipshod way that it will be forever afterwards unsatisfactory.

Some of our more progressive poultry men have taken great pains in the construction of their poultry houses and are now in possession of poultry establishments that are a credit to themselves and an improvement to the farms on which they exist. We have before us at the present moment a picture of the poultry house owned by one of our prosperous farmers, says

Farmers Review.

The poultry house in question is of one story and built with an ordinary roof. This gives the best effect architecturally. The windows on the south side are about five feet from top to bottom and they reach down nearly to the level of the floor. This insures a large amount of sunshine to dry up the moisture that accumulates in the house and that should be daily dried up

BRYANT'S POND.

In Rogers of Patterson, is boarding at Little Meadows.

Miss Florence Day returned Saturday to her school in York County.

Walter B. Ordway of Peru was in town last week visiting his stepmother, Mrs. H. C. Ordway. His daughter Ellen will attend the high school here.

Wallace Beesey of Wakefield, Mass., visited his aunt, Mrs. Hannah Ordway and his brother, Arthur Beesey last week.

Abner D. Bryant and wife of Freeport, are at Emily J. Felt's. Mr. Bryant has recently returned from a trip to Los Angeles, where he intended to locate, but the climate did not agree with his wife's health. He has a brother there, Orison Bryant, who is inspector of street work.

The corn shop will probably start during the present week. The cut will be light, if reports are true that come from several sections in regard to damage by the drought.

The Rutell Stock Company arrived here Sunday and are staying at Mrs. Little Meadows'. This company was here in May last, and gave the finest entertainment of any show that has been in our town for many years. No doubt they will receive liberal patronage on this, their second visit. They will remain until Thursday morning.

The high school will not begin until Monday, Sept. 16. Eliza D. Cote of Mechanic Falls will have charge of it again. The primary department will be taught by Miss Frances E. Jose of Newport. Miss Lela Jack of South Paris is teaching in the Chace district and H. C. Bacon in the Whitman district.

Nearly all of the summer guests have left town. Many who have passed their first season here, say they shall rarely come another year and express themselves as much pleased with our village as a summer resort.

I. A. Hall has bought the small island located in the south part of the lake. It was owned jointly by Mrs. Lucinda Rowe and William Day.

Emma Leighton of Woodford, is teaching the Union school.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben. Abbott who have been employed by G. Q. Perham, have returned to their home in Rumford.

W. F. Bowker and wife have been taking a week's outing at Camp Gladly, on the shore of Shag Pond. They were guests of Charles Curtis.

A large bear has been several times in this section. He crossed one night last week through Bear Hollow towards Buck Mountain. Probably looking for early samples of sweet corn.

LOCKE MILLS.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED.

Kill the Germs by Breathing Hy-o-mel. Gives Quick Relief.

Many people who have suffered with catarrh for years naturally think they cannot be cured, and become discouraged.

The reason they have failed of cure is because they have not treated the disease with the local remedy, Hy-o-mel, which is breathed through a nebulizer which so that its healing action reaches the most remote air cells, kills all catarrh germs and restores the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and lungs to a healthy condition.

Catarrh is really a local disease and to cure it, it must be treated by a remedy which reaches every spot in the nose and throat where the disease germs lodge. Hy-o-mel does this and gives relief from the first day's use.

A complete Hy-o-mel outfit costs but $1.00 and H. S. Packard gives a guarantee with every package to refund the money unless it cures.

LAWN PARTY

Given by Mrs. A. G. Willey at her home at Bar Mills.

The following item taken from the Biddeford Record will be of interest to our people, as Bethel was formerly the home of Mrs. Willey, and Mrs. F. L. Edwards and Miss Elsie Hall, who assisted in the entertainment are both well known in town.

"The members of the Woman's Magazine League were invited by Mrs. A. G. Willey to their home Saturday afternoon for a special meeting. On arriving all noticed the miscellaneous collection on the lawn of old shoes around a camphor bottle, of a nail driven through a piece of board, of well worn gloves etc. After the roll call, the party were invited to the lawn and being given slips of paper upon which were written 21 statements. On examination the mysterious articles were found to be numbered and the clues around the camphor bottle corresponded to the statement, 'Weary feet around the camp fire,' the nail driven through the board, 'A drive through the woods,' the gloves, 'Hampshire.' All were delighted with the novel arrangement and such a busy, happy time ensued until the lists were called for, when it was found that Miss F. E. Milliken had nineteen correct on her list and was given a fine box of chocolates as the first prize and Mrs. Elsie Berry received the consolation, a basket of sweet peas. The company were then invited to the house where they were given such a musical treat by a pianist, Miss Elsie Hall of Bethel. It is very seldom that one hears a player of her ability and technique; also a vocal duet by Mrs. Willey's sister, Mrs. Edwards, and a solo by Miss Dyer, were finely rendered. Delicious refreshments were served. Adjournment brought a close to a most enjoyable afternoon."

CROPS AND MOISTURE.

Whence Do Crops Draw Their Supply of Water?

We have from time to time called the attention of our readers to the fact that ordinarily we do not have sufficient rainfall even in the humid sections, during the crop growing season, to produce a full crop. Some experiments conducted by the Ontario Agricultural College show considerable light on the question as to what proportion of moisture crops draw from the rain that falls throughout the crop growing season or what from the store of water below. In fact, it is a vital point on which hangs the whole question of cultivation.

The station last year took a number of Keweenaw crows and set them outside, where they would receive all the rain that fell during the growing season. They then sowed them to wheat, peas, barley and oats, and watered them with water it seemed to be necessary. The one that contained wheat used 22.50 inches of water, of which but 10.41 inches fell during the growing season. The peas used 27.75 inches, of which 11.50 inches fell during the season of their growth. The barley used 18.41 inches and the oats 21.15 inches, while during the season of their growth but 7.91 inches of rain fell. In other words, wheat required 2.15 times as much rain as fell during the growing season, peas 2.15 times, barley 2.15 times and oats 2.15 times.

These crows were at first set out on the ground, then one-fourth of them were set on the ground, and another one-fourth in the ground. The result was that there was no difference between the amount used by those set on the ground and those set in it; but those required less water than those that were set on the exposed roof.
During this season there was at no time a rainfall of as much as two inches.

It was discovered that the plants began to wilt when the soil contained by actual test 75 per cent. of water, that a rain of 1.75 inches would saturate the soil 4.5 inches, but as part of this was carried down, it would contain it to a depth of 5 or 10 inches. It was found that with further that a saturated loam contained from 30 to 35 per cent. of water. This was in 1906. The year 1906 was wet, and it was discovered that in a wet year the crops used about 50 per cent. more rain than actually fell, and hence draw considerable of their water from below.

All this shows the importance, especially in a dry season, of thoroughly and early saturation of the soil, says William H. Hays, of the Ontario Agricultural College, and saving the water below for an emergency, which is certain to occur at some period of every wet season.

We call the attention of our readers to this matter because we have become more conversant with it through years and experience that the general condition of the soil and the depth of saturation in the conditions are of a great deal more importance to the average farmer than the question of the fertility itself. Matrimony is of little use if it is not great in quantity, but no matter how fertile the soil, unless it can be put in such physical condition as will permit full development of the roots of the plant and conserve moisture for use in a dry time, a good crop cannot be expected.

ROAD PLANES.

It is Better Than the King Drag on Some Kinds of Roads.

On heavy roads that are likely to become very hard after being wet and traveled the best known as the road plane is especially useful. It also saves the purpose of the road drag and works on the same principle as

The Road Plane.

The King road drag. The sketch shows one which is very well designed, says Farm and Home. It should be about 14 feet long and 4 feet wide, the outside runners, springs, blades and inside running boards all of flat or slightly flared plank. The runners keep the plane from sinking too deep and will bridge over any stones in the road, lifting them to underneath where cutting off the high points. The plane boards are secured with a strip of steel so they will keep a sharp edge with considerable strain. If an ordinary drag road is properly constructed and contains good condition, it can be maintained to shape by the use of this plane and the King drag at a cost of five or ten dollars per mile per year.

Barley as Stock Feed.

Farmers everywhere are just beginning to recognize the great value of barley for the domestic cattle and hogs.
Crested barleys which come here have shown considerable gain in domestic cattle, and so they receive due share as do without delay.

Good Clover Stages.

Good clover can be made out of any and all kinds of soil in which to plant it in an open field or in a field it is planted down to produce the silage as well as for hay.

ASTONISHED THE BARBER.

Quietly entering a barber's shop, the stranger removed his hat and coat, and taking a card from his pocket wrote on it:

"I want to be shaved."

A barber stepping forward read the card, and, pointing to a chair, said to his brother artist:

"Dead as a brass kettle and dumb as an oyster."

The man straightened himself out in the chair, when his manipulator began lathering his face.

"This cuss has a cheek like a stone wall," he said, when a general laugh followed.

"Stick a pin in him and see if he is entirely dumb," said another.

The victim remaining undisturbed, the following shots were fired at him by the delighted tonsorial artists:

"He needs a shampoo. His head is dirtier than a public-house doorman."

"Have him with a stilette. Don't spoil your razor on that stubble."

"Gracious, what a guy! He'd make a good blindfold."

"He ought to rent that nose for a locomotive headlight."

While all these complimentary allusions were flying about him the operation of shaving was finished, and the man arose and put on his coat, and then turning to the astonished barber, said:

"How much for the shave and compliments?"

"I—I—I," gasped the astonished man, "oh, nothing—nothing—call again—excuse"—and as the strange or left the shop the discomfited barbers swore that they would never believe in a deaf and dumb man again until they had first fired a ten-pound cannon about his ears.

A BUSINESS MAN'S MISTAKE.

Stranger (who has yelled himself hoarse over Jinks' telephone without getting any reply)—See here, I can't do anything with this telephone.

Jinks (with an air of innocence)— Did you wish to speak to any one else?

"Certainly."

"Oh! It has been disconnected for about a month."

"Disconnected. You didn't say anything about it."

"I thought everybody knew we had disconnected our telephone on account of the horse. I didn't know you wanted to talk to any one else. I supposed you merely desired to exercise your lungs."—N. Y. Weekly.

Figuratively Speaking.

Statements in Washington, over their black coffee and cigars, are telling a little story about Chief Justice Fuller of the United States supreme court. The chief justice, so the story runs, met an old-time friend, and after a hearty hand-clasp Mr. Fuller remarked:

"You are looking exceedingly well aren't you feeling out a little?"

"No, indeed," replied the friend.
"You probably think so because I'm looking Fuller in the face."—Judge.

BLANKETED.

Under-Exposed.

WHY NOT?

"Would you consider it good form," said young Adam,
"to address a married woman as a woman?"

Judge.

Somewhat Discouraging.

"Do you intend to go to Europe this autumn?"

"Yes," answered Mrs. Connor, "at-though going to Europe isn't what I used to be. The many people are making the trip that there isn't nearly as much chance to get together."—Workman's Star.

A Frenzied Fear.

Grison: I want to be married today, and be married so that I would never meet with a serious accident.

Stanton: That's a nice idea.

Grison: But I? I can't be afraid to go out on the street with a hole in my stomach after this.—Chicago Recorder.

Take Care.

Patience: You are very concerned for the safety of both.

Patience: Yes, that's the way. I don't get on my back because I'm afraid I won't get up.

"Oh, well, I wouldn't say that. I don't know that but you're wearing new shoes as well as that you were last week."—Teachers' Statesman.

Told By the Face.

Mrs. Churchill met that little boy who lives next to you, yesterday. I could tell he was a good little boy, by his face.

Mrs. Fairbank—Oh, I suppose yesterday was one of the days he'd washed his face!—Teachers' Statesman.

Discouraged.

"What's the matter with Har-dolph? He looks discouraged."

"He worked for three years on what he thought was going to be a business poem. The editors are publishing their reviews of it under the head of 'Light verse.'"—Chicago Recorder.

Made Mad by Confinement.

James—I see a Henry B. Hyde of Patton, Me., claims to have found a frog in a century-old bedpost which he recently cut up.

Hubert—I suppose, when returned, the frog appeared to be hopping mad?
—Teachers' Statesman.

Ready to Go the Limit.

"I have been," said the long-haired violin, "a little gone on heroin."

"Ah, right," said the other, "have M. F. get him. He's nothing we can do to bring him to his senses, after the experiments we've had this year."
—Chicago Recorder.

LAST OF LONDON'S OLD INN.

Travelers of Today Stop at the Tavern of Pickwick and Sam Weller.

A century ago London was noted for its coaching inns. Today only one remains in London proper to recall the glory of coaching parties that assembled in the comfortable parlors for an evening of pleasure. George's Inn, the last of the famous taverns where the nobility of England gathered to pass their time, was probably the most popular that lined the roads of the English capital. It was through his association with the people who frequented George's Inn that Charles Dickens began to attract widespread attention as a novelist and writer. More than three score years ago he was a familiar figure when reverly told away in the now antiquated livery. Now it was that Mr. Dickens met Mr. Pickwick and the various characters he immortalized in "Pickwick Papers" and founded at once into popular favor as a household name and a model of character. The association of the old inn is now maintained at a high standard, and it is today a favorite stopping place for travelers and coaching parties. Following has been removed from the inn to dim the memories of the past. In name old-fashioned chairs, leather tables and furniture are there in decorations have never been altered.

Ownership has remained with the same family for many generations and it is said the present owner is direct descendant of the man who first occupied it.

His Apology.

"What now, Rogers? Have you been getting married?"

"Yes, Rogers. But I—oh, I—must have to do it. It was the only way I could get my old light of love to give me a vacation."—Chas.
Tribune.

Kate Nothing Else Now.

Yeast—I hear he has become a Christian.

Crimesbook—That's right.
"I was in that."

"Somebody told him there was no hell in sweet potatoes."—Tribune.
